Student Osteopathic Medical Association International Health Program Scholarships

The mission of the Student Osteopathic Medical Association's International Health Program is to promote international medicine and to develop an awareness of other cultures medical practice via direct student interaction. It is the desire of this program to provide resources to students interested in international health and to encourage osteopathic medical students to incorporate an international elective experience into their medical school curriculum.

Scholarship Information: General International Health Programs Scholarship: Each student selected for the scholarship will receive up to $500 to cover transportation, room, board and essential expenses related to an international medicine elective rotation. Rotation sites are selected by the student and approved by the respective Office of Clinical Education or equivalent at the osteopathic medical school prior to application. The completion of this rotation must take place during the student's 3rd or 4th year of study only.

Requirements for consideration:

Membership in National SOMA

Entering the 3rd or 4th year of training

Demonstrate a strong interest in international medicine

Verification Form, signed and stamped by the school registrar, or similar, which affirms that the experience meets the school's requirements for an elective rotation

The externship should be at least one month in length and must take place in a country outside the United States

Once chosen for the scholarship, the training site may not be changed without verbal and/or written consent of the IHP Director

Deadline: March 26, 2012
